GPL PLANS SENIOR FAIR

GREENSBORO, NC (September 7, 2004) – As part of the Greensboro Public Library's ongoing commitment to providing services and programs for older adults, the Library will host its first annual Senior Fair on Wednesday, September 22 from 10 am to 12 noon.

Participants will have an opportunity to browse exhibits from local agencies, sample nutritional snacks, meet representatives from organizations that work with older adults and caregivers, win door prizes, and even get their cholesterol checked. Attendees will also have an opportunity to network with other older adults and learn about the numerous resources available to seniors in the community.

The Senior Fair will be held at Central Library, 219 N. Church St., and is free to the public. For more information, call Diana Walker at 373-5836.
